A MEETING of the Territorial dairy association is announced to be held at Edmonton on March 26th. THE council of the board of trade is considering a proposition to hold a banquet on the occasion of the annual meeting of the board, with the purpose of getting together a number of representative men of both town and country for the purpose of consulting on the best means of advancing the general interests in the matter of immigration, markets for produce etc. It is believed that if a plan be agreed upon and united action taken better results would follow than could be expected if every interest worked separately. This matter will be discussed at the approaching special meeting of the board on the 12th.

A MEETING of the council of the board of trade was held in the secretary's office last evening, the president, J. A. McDougall, in the chair. The board have written to the minister of the interior on the subject of relief seed grain. It having been reported that relief seed was to be brought in they informed the minister that good seed could be supplied here at a price that would save the freight in. THE MAY-QUEEN.

The musical entertainment given on Tuesday evening by the Presbyterian church choir and assisting friends was not as well attended as the efforts put forth to properly render good music to Edmonton people deserved. That is to say the hall was not crowded, but it was fairly well filled. No pains had been spared by Mr. Randall, leader of the choir, or by the members of the choir or their assisting friends to make the entertainment a success. The following are the ladies and gentlemen taking part: Soprano: Miss Cookson, Mrs. Dunlop, Miss Lindsay, Miss McCauley, Mrs. D. W. Macdonald, Miss Richardson, Mrs. W. Johnston Walker, Mrs. G. E. Welbourn, Alto: Mrs. Douglas, Miss Rogers, Mrs. Fred. Ross. Tenor: Mr. Hill, Mr. McAdam, Mr. McIntyre, Mr. McKenzie, Mr. Vaudin. Bass: Dr. Goodwin, J. W. Kelly, Mr. Potter, Mr. Randall. Pianist: Alex. McCauley. Organist: F. H. Andrews; Choirmaster, A. G. Randall. The first part of the programme was "The May-Queen," a pastoral by Sir W. Sterndale Bennett. The soprano was taken by Miss Cookson as the May-Queen, the alto by Miss Rogers as the Queen, the tenor by J. McIntyre as the Lover and the bass by A. G. Randall as Robin-Hood. The music and words of the pastoral are pleasing and their rendering received frequent and merited applause. Although doing double duty Mr. Randall in the part of Robin-Hood excelled himself.

The second part of the programme was as follows: Piano-forte duet, "What are the Wild Waves saying," Miss McCauley and A. McCauley. Quintette, "When winds breathe soft," Misses Cookson and Rogers, and Messrs. McAdam, McIntyre and Randall. Solo, "Kathleen Mavourneen," E. Rayner. Mr. Rayner was persistently called back but did not respond. "Soft be the dew," Miss Cookson and Miss Rogers. Trio, "Brightly Glows the Morning Star," Mrs. Welbourn, Mrs. D. W. Macdonald, and Mrs. Douglas. Lullaby, "Sweet and Low," by the choir. "God Save the Queen," by the choir closed the entertainment.

THE TRANSVAAL.

Full reports of Dr. Jameson's raid into the Transvaal are to hand and leave very little doubt that the object of the raid was to capture—or in other words to steal—the republic. There may not have been a definite plot, but there is no doubt that this was the result which those who were chiefly interested in the movement looked forward to. The audacity of the idea was quite equalled by the audacity displayed in the attempt; and strange to say it was almost successful. The raid failed not from any miscalculation of Jameson in what he or his men could do, but because the Boer government beat him by diplomacy, withdrawing from him by negotiations and promises at the last moment the support upon which he depended to make his attempt a success. Johannesburg is about the centre of the southern part of the Boer republic and only some 30 or 40 miles from the capital, Pretoria, with which it is connected by rail. Jameson's starting point was at Mafeking in Bechuanaland on the borders of the Transvaal, about 150 miles due west of Johannesburg. The proximity of Pretoria to Johannesburg made it possible for the Boer government to communicate quickly and easily with the discontented residents of Johannesburg, and they employed the time between Jameson's crossing the border and his reaching Krugersdorp in negotiating with the malcontents, with such good effect that when Jameson after crossing the border on Sunday reached Krugersdorp, 20 miles from Johannesburg, on Wednesday instead of finding a friendly force of 2,000 men awaiting him as he had expected, he found nearly that number of Boers strongly entrenched. For while the Boer government was negotiating with the Johannesburgers ostensibly for a peaceful solution of the troubles it was quite as busy in mustering all its forces so as to destroy Jameson and possibly afterwards Johannesburg. Even when Jameson found enemies instead of friends his heart did not fail him and he promptly attacked the Boers. Although he did not dislodge them he was not defeated by them. Finding them too strong to break through at that point, and still having faith in assistance to come from Johannesburg, on Wednesday night he moved south and passed around the Boer position reaching Valkfontein only five miles from Johannesburg. Here the Boers were still more strongly entrenched, with artillery, but he attacked as before, and evidently made good his attack, although in face of the numbers opposed, and the fact that his men were dropping from exhaustion for lack of food and sleep and there being no assistance forthcoming he could not possibly have succeeded, still he kept it up until his ammunition was exhausted, when he surrendered. His losses were not nearly so severe as at first reported, being about 20 killed and 27 wounded. Having succeeded in getting within sight of Johannesburg, so that the people of the city must have known of his presence, and having shown his ability even with his small force to hold his own against the famous Boers in actual conflict, he no doubt felt that he had been very harshly—not to say treacherously—dealt with by those whom he and his men had risked so much to assist. This feeling it seems is generally shared throughout British South Africa, where the desire to see the whole of South Africa under British dominion is very strong; and the Uitlanders in Johannesburg are loudly execrated for their lukewarmness, cowardice or treachery.

The foundation for the raid was the discontent of the foreign residents of Johannesburg with their political position in the republic. This discontent had reached a pitch when a resort to arms was felt to be the only recourse.

The large number of Lee Metford rifles and Maxim guns in Johannesburg proves this. Although there was a general feeling in favor of armed rebellion there was a question as to how it should be commenced, and no doubt Jameson's raid was intended to be the signal. It was expected that with Jameson actually in the field there would be no further hesitancy about taking up arms, as there would then be a leader upon whom all could depend and whom all would be proud to follow. It appears that the Boer government quite appreciated the situation, and the necessity of allaying the discontent in Johannesburg. The government knew the moment Jameson crossed the border while the Johannesburgers did not. The government then at once made offers of redress of grievances to the Johannesburgers which were acceptable to all, and in the hope of avoiding a conflict the leaders of the movement in Johannesburg turned their attention to negotiation instead of fighting, not knowing, or not considering, that it was only the prospect of fighting that made negotiations possible. To their credit be it said that the terms they asked included a safe conduct for Jameson and his men out of the republic. But already Jameson's force, not expecting any such fire in their rear, had engaged in conflict, thereby placing themselves outside the terms of any peaceful negotiations. There is no doubt that these offers of the Boer government were mere treachery, made to gain time and to divide the counsels of their opponents. In this division of counsels they were aided by the rivalry between different mining interests in Johannesburg. Certain interests are led by Hon. Cecil Rhodes and his rival is J. B. Robinson. Rhodes' idea is political as well as financial aggrandizement, and probably Robinson thought that with moderate terms from the Boer government his interests would be just as safe as they would be were the republic to pass under British control, which at that time meant the control of Rhodes. The defection of the Robinson interest was no doubt what wrecked the raid and is the reason that the Transvaal still exists as a republic instead of having become a part of the British possessions in South Africa.

CHURCH TAXATION.

In the interest of the charitable institutions of the town, the refusal of the town council to grant the prayer of the petitioners, asking for the remitting by them of all taxes on the usual one-half acre of church property upon which is situated the church building and the manse, should not be allowed to pass without the most vigorous protest of every citizen.

There can be no doubt but that the council in taking the stand they have chosen to take, were influenced solely by a desire to further the interests of those they serve, but in this case, (if public opinion counts for anything) they certainly have misjudged their duties and underestimated the best interests of the town.

Churches when holding town property as investments or on speculation should undoubtedly be taxed, and in this particular, "The Methodist church," as a corporation very properly and very willingly paid to the municipality this year $277.00 taxes; but the principle ceases to apply when that part of the general church organization is attacked, which part is started in, and supported entirely by charity, such as the Edmonton "McDougall church." It is the undoubted duty of every municipality, as a governing body, to do all in its power, to both force of law and financial assistance, to further, preserve and foster public morals, Christian influences and institutions. Such in fact is the one great purpose of all governments in Christian countries, and the principle constitutes the bulwark of British civilization. * * * The church is without doubt the greatest of all such institutions and the strongest helpmate of every town council, but in Edmonton, and in no other place that I now know of in Canada or the United States; the municipal government have (though perhaps unwittingly) apparently scouted this principle, and have proceeded, not to put down evil but to assist it, and put down agencies for good, by taxing them, and by encouraging its citizens not to support the churches of their fathers, by placing on all church supporters a tax, thus reducing the usefulness of churches and discouraging those who have given, uncomplained, and doing so to further the spiritual and temporal welfare of the entire community. The self-sacrifice of all church supporters here, in giving to the utmost of their ability and in going to all sorts of trouble and self-denial to get together sufficient to build the places of worship, and support, even in a meagre manner, building to themselves, their pastors, receives a novel recognition by the council.

The action of the council is very poor encouragement to the members of the Church of England, who have just put forth every effort to build for the benefit of the cause of Christianity, their new church, and it is also a very peculiar thank-offering to the Roman Catholic church for their noble exertions and doings to further the spiritual and temporal welfare of the entire community. The self-sacrifice of all church supporters here, in giving to the utmost of their ability and in going to all sorts of trouble and self-denial to get together sufficient to build the places of worship, and support, even in a meagre manner, building to themselves, their pastors, receives a novel recognition by the council.

Those who pay the taxes have founded and maintained these churches, and the council is playing a very questionable part in setting (but I believe unintentionally) a premium on infidelity, indifference and vice in encouraging those who do not encourage institutions whose sole and only object is the bettering of all citizens. While acting at the court of revision for the Methodist church, I protested on behalf of all churches against this assessment, and I hope the council will reconsider what they have done in error. I have no doubt they acted honestly, but I can assure them that the public this time consider they acted very unwisely.

It provides for the restoration of Catholic denominational schools, and also that Catholics supporting such schools be exempt from paying taxes to the public schools of the province. A clause states that no separate school district shall be constituted as such unless the Catholics payers petition therefor. The main effect of the bill is to restore to the Catholics nearly all the privileges enjoyed previous to 1890.

Macled Gazette: The Fraser Dramatic Company won golden opinions during their three days' stay in Macled. From a theatrical point of view they are far and away the best company that has ever visited the territories. In comedy they are irresistibly funny, without the slightest touch of vulgarity, while 'East Lynne' gave evidence of much more cautionary parts. Miss Jeffries is a pleasing, painstaking and clever actress. Probably one of the most pleasant features of her acting is that she never overdoes it. The ladies who support her are all exceedingly good in their particular lines. Mr. Fraser only appeared in 'Rose Garland.' His interpretation of the old farmer could scarcely be improved upon, and stamps him as an artist in such parts. The gentlemen of his company are all clever actors. The company is an all round strong one.

MANAWAN CORRESPONDENCE.

Last some should wonder where the above locality is situated let me inform them that it is the head of the great Vermillion valley, and situated about sixty-five miles east of Edmonton on the south side of the Saskatchewan river, at Egg lake. It is a settlement of some pretensions, having about fifty families. Two school districts have been organized, and we hope will soon be in running order. The chief industry of the people is stock raising for which the country is peculiarly adapted. However, the original settlers stick to their old vocation, that of hunting. There are also several miners.

Although the people of this district are very far removed from railway communication, and consequently from the outside world generally, they know how to enjoy themselves in a manner that would be a good example to people in more favored positions. Inside of the last three weeks they have given seven balls. Probably the most conspicuous were those given at the wedding of Mr. Thos. Whitford, son of Charles Witford, Esq., and that given by Henry Monkman, Esq., who came four hundred and fifty miles for the purpose of showing the young people of this district how such things were done on the old Red River forty years ago. The venerable old gentleman and his young partner tripped the light fantastic russet foot wear to those old familiar strains of the violin, so common in the Red River district from which they derive their name, until compelled to retire from sheer exhaustion and give place to a younger but not more nimble couple, who repeated the movement. To say that he succeeded would be putting it mildly.

Your correspondent has to extend his sympathies to the bachelor fraternity this week, as we chronicle the following event. Mr. Robert Littlechild, formerly of Clover Bar district, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony, to Miss Jessie, second daughter of Philip Whitford, Esq., of this place. We extend our congratulations.

Thos. Niblock arrived from the Vermillion last week, where Mr. Batty and Mr. Bibbee have about one hundred and fifty head of cattle wintering. He reports the stock doing fine. Mr. Niblock and Mr. Clark Bibbee have charge of the herd this winter and their safety for the winter is assured. He also states that the herd belonging to Cinnamon Bros. is doing fine, they have upwards of four hundred head divided in two bunches. We have no fear for their safety as the boys are old hands at the business and find lots of time to have a good time beside.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA.

The band concert at the barracks on Friday evening next, promises to be a great success. Already some 200 tickets have been sold.

Every effort is being made to have a grist mill established here. A good bonus is now offered by the farmers. A 50 barrel roller process is what is wanted.

A sad accident, which resulted in the death of Mr. George Wallis, occurred at Island Lake, in the Beaver Hills, some 15 miles east of here, on Thursday afternoon last. It seems that the deceased and two companions were getting out some timber. They had partly chopped and partly sawn a good sized spruce tree and then drove in a wedge. The tree slipped off the stump and stood for a moment and then commenced falling, but owing to it being a heavily branched tree, with plenty of snow on the branches, the three men could not make out which way the tree was going to drop, as the snow blinded them. Poor Wallis just happened to get in the tree's way and was borne to the earth and there pinioned until help came. He was lifted carefully and put into a sleigh and driven to the police hospital, where Dr. Watson did everything possible, but without avail, as the poor fellow was hurt internally and had some bones broken. He died at 2 a. m. Friday and was buried on Saturday afternoon. The funeral was one of the largest we have had here. The burial service was read by the Rev. Mr. D'Easum. The deceased was a good and industrious young man, well liked by everybody. To his relatives and friends the deepest sympathy is extended.

BEAVER LAKE (EAST).

We regret to hear that Dr. Tofield, of the Tofield district, is very ill with inflammatory rheumatism.

Francois Pichy, one of the oldest settlers, died on Sunday, the 26th inst., after a short illness. It is only nine months since Mrs. Pichy died. The body was taken across the lake for interment. Some affection of the lungs was the cause of his death. Mr. Pichy will be much missed.

Robert Logan was given the contract for the erection of a fine hewed-log school house in the Tofield school district. Miss Harriet McCallum has been engaged as teacher in this district, which is situated at the southwest of the lake. Teaching is carried on at present in a rented house.

Mr. Duncan McAllister, one of our most enterprising young bachelors, gave the settlement a pleasant surprise by bringing home a bride. We wish the young couple a long life and a happy one. Who next?

Those who are fishing through the ice with nets report that the catch is smaller than usual. Last spring many fish were left to rot on the banks of Ross creek by some of those who came from outlying settlements. This may have nothing to do with the present comparative scarcity, but it shouldn't be permitted, all the same.

EDNA.

January 17th, Mr. Robt. Caldwell gave a dance, and entertained many friends.

This week the weather has been very cold, the mercury away below zero, 40°. Jan. 19, mercury stands at 4°.

On Sunday, Jan. 19th, Rev. White-side (Methodist) held a service in "The Pines" school house, also at Mr. Hackett's residence.

Mr. Lang is suffering from inflammation of the lungs.

SIR CHARLES AS A BOOMSTER.

Winnipeg Tribune.
Sir Charles's re-entry into public life has called forth quite a storm of opposition throughout the Dominion, and some of the journals, especially those opposed to Sir Charles, are reviving awkward memories in connection with the old knight's public career. For the purpose of demonstrating what a natural and unmitigated boomer the "old war horse" is, his prophecies about the time the C. P. R. was commenced have been recalled. He overtopped all the boomsters of a period of inflation. The men who got him to endorse their wildest projects were taken at their own moderation when they saw them clothed in his eloquence. They were ashamed of the meagreness of their expectations as they heard him prophesy. He cheerfully pledged the credit of the country to the building of a railway that was to last ship over eighteen miles of dry land. He had "no doubt as to its practicability." Its estimated traffic was to be 600,000 tons of freight a year. To say that the Canadian Pacific railway was to be built without adding a dollar to the debt of the country was too tame a prediction for him. He must add that the debt would be reduced by fifty-three millions. In 1890, when he said it was to be $100,000,000, it was actually $237,533,000, a miscalculation of $137,533,000, or to put it another way, in the period for which he predicted a decrease of $53,000,000 there was an increase of $84,000,000, and to-day the net debt is a hundred millions more than when Sir Charles Tupper spoke. He declared that at an early date the sales of land alone would recoup to the country every dollar that had been expended on the C. P. R. He read to the House and gave his emphatic approval to the estimate prepared in the department of the Interior. "Having given the subject my best and fullest consideration, I estimate that the receipts of this department from the sale of agricultural and coal lands, timber dues, rents of grazing lands, and sales of mineral lands other than coal with the royalties from the minerals, between the 1st of January, 1883, and the 31st of Dec. 1891, both inclusive, will amount to not less than $58,000,000." He talked of the farmers of the Northwest raising 640,000,000 bushels of wheat. Experience had no effect in curbing his imagination; age could not wither him nor custom stale his infinite variety.

When he visited this country in 1886-87 it was to clap on new taxes and make more promises. The iron industry which he proposed to create was in three years to employ 20,000 workmen and maintain 100,000 people in comfort. The chief moment of his career is the iron tariff, with its enormous drain on the taxpayer, and its heavy burdens on productive industry. He returned to his London office, came here again to take part in the elections of 1891, and on his return denounced half the people of Canada as traitors, and made a violent attack upon the Grand Trunk Railway company. At this time, be it remembered, he was the representative of Canada, paid by the taxes of the people whom he was maligning. When he was brought to task for his charge that the management of the Grand Trunk had been characterized by extravagance, corruption and jobbery, he explained that he referred to transactions which had taken place some forty years before. Such an outburst of spleen could hardly have been occasioned by reading ancient history, but it was readily explained by Sir Charles's assertion that the Grand trunk had been helping the Liberal "traitors" instead of placing itself at the disposal of his own party.

Appropriations for the re-armament of the militia and the exploratory expedition to Hudson's Bay are expected to appear in the supplementary estimates.

Regina Standard: The Standard has no desire to augment the misery of His Honor. When he was at the height of his gubernatorial glory, and "hundreds worshipped at his feet" we warned him against exceeding the functions of his dignified position. The gaddies that then buzzed around him like bees about a honey plant are now stinging him to death. We do not want to take any part in the torture, but will say, for the information of the government, that if the twelve thousand dollars a year spent on his salary and maintenance be used to promote the establishment of creameries and cheese factories in the Northwest, the leave of absence may be extended to cover the remainder of his term.

MARKETS.

The grain market is dull, and has been so for some time. Wheat is in best demand both for milling and feed. The price is 40c. to 50c. for milling and 25c. for feed, cash. Barley for feed brings 15c. to 20c. in trade, or part cash. Barley for malting has been sold at 25c. cash. Oats are in very little demand. Buyers have their warehouses full with no present prospect of shipping, consequently they are not keen to buy. Twelve to 15c. in trade or part cash is paid for good feed oats. Good seed or milling oats will bring about 17c. cash, but buyers would prefer not to handle any more at present, until there is some prospect of an outlet. There is at present about 50,000 bushels of grain in store in Edmonton and only one car has yet been shipped this season. There is still a very large quantity of good grain, especially oats and barley, in farmers' hands. The best of farmers had the best and most grain as a rule and have as yet declined to sell, hoping for better prices, which as yet have failed to materialize.

Dressed beef is quoted at 4c. to 4½c. pork 5c. and mutton 5c. to 6c. chickens 8c. The above are in abundant supply. Very few local turkeys are offering. Live hogs bring 4c. a pound.

Butter is in full supply and brings 15c. to 18c. for choice tub and 20c. for choice rolls in trade. Only good butter is accepted. There is still a lot of last year's butter in farmers' hands. Eggs are becoming more plentiful and are now in full supply. The price remains at 25c. in trade.

SCHOOL MEETING.

A regular meeting of the Edmonton public school board was held in the secretary's office on Monday evening, Feb. 3rd. All members present. The newly elected trustees, Messrs. McBride and Oliver, were sworn in.

Bellamy—McBride. That John Cameron be chairman of the board for the year.

Oliver—Bellamy. That St. Geo. Jellett be secretary at the same salary as before, $150 per year.

A communication from Miss Rogers was received respecting the teaching of music in the schools, and Messrs. Cameron, McBride were appointed a committee to investigate and report at next meeting.

A complaint was received from the principal that one of the blackboards was very unsatisfactory. It was decided to refer the matter to the architects. In accordance with the principal's request it was decided to purchase a waste paper basket for each room. In case of pupils who themselves or their parents or guardians were not rate-payers of the district, it was decided that for the present no fees would be charged.

Bellamy—McBride. That K. A. McLeod be paid the balance due him on the school building as per architect's statement, less $40 held back for painting roof and putting in iron gratings, $10 of extras for blackboard and $85 of extras for filling up old well.

The following accounts were passed:

Salary,	$301.32
F. H. Andrews,	7.35
Rose Bros, furnaces,	42.25
R. Raymer, clock, etc.,	7.75
H. Goodridge, coal,	16.00
E. Acton, water,	3.00
R. Wylie, scrubbing new building,	10.00
D. McCauley, scraping plaster off pipes,	.50
J. Cameron, broom,	.40

Oliver—McCauley. That the necessary extra insurance on the old school buildings now vacant be paid.

McCauley—Oliver. That a by-law to borrow $1,800 from the Imperial Bank at 7% interest for three months to meet current expenses be passed.

Bellamy—McBride. That tenders be asked for the office of caretaker from March 1st until the end of the year.

FIRE BRIGADE.

The annual meeting of Edmonton fire brigade No. 1, was held in the fire hall on Monday evening, Feb. 3rd. Chief McLeod presiding. After routine business the application of S. Studebaker, H. E. Devin, N. M. Lander and J. McIntyre for membership were accepted. As Jas. Stovel's name had been omitted in a former application the secretary was instructed to apply for a refund of $2.00 taxes due him as a member of the brigade.

The treasurer read the financial statement for the year ending Feb. 1st, '96, showing:

Total receipts,	$76.25
Amount paid out,	62.60

Balance,	$13.65
Amount due to members,	$10.20
Balance over liabilities,	3.45

Messrs. Sanderson, McLeod, Carpenter, Cairney and Lubbock were nominated for the position of chief. After three ballots G. F. Sanderson was declared elected, but declined the position, when K. A. McLeod was declared unanimously re-elected. Messrs. Cairney, Carpenter, J. E. Kelly and Lubbock were nominated for the position of assistant chief. On the second ballot J. E. Kelly was elected assistant chief. Robt. Hockley was re-elected secretary-treasurer by acclamation.

Messrs. Sutter and Cowie, of the fire, water and light committee of the town council, addressed the brigade and pledged themselves to do their best to promote the interests of the brigade and bring it up to a high standard of efficiency.

On motion of G. F. Sanderson, seconded by W. H. Clark, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the ex-chairman of the fire, water and light committee, J. H. Picard, for his conscientious endeavors in the interests of the brigade while at the head of that department during the past year.

On motion of G. F. Sanderson, seconded by J. E. Stovel, a committee consisting of the chief, the assistant chief, the secretary and the mover, was appointed to see the fire, water and light committee of the town council and bring in a report at the next meeting of the brigade.

A request made by the Thistle hockey club in reference to the entertainment of the club in the fire hall was granted. During the Calgary fire brigade hockey team visit the tournament here was laid over till next meeting, to be held on Friday the 8th inst.

The Battleford Herald reports that an Indian of the Onion Lake agency was killed by being impaled on one of the spikes of the hay rack as he fell off a load of hay. The accident occurred on Christmas day and he died the second day after.

Discussing the possibility of war between Britain and the United States the Prince Albert Times makes an excellent point in favor of the Hudson's Bay railway. The construction of this road would relieve Canada from the present easy possibility of being cut in two by a raiding party from across the line cutting the C. P. R. anywhere on the plains.
